30 (d) a trade union that has been dissolved under section 19 of the Trade Unions Act 1940.”.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

This Bill seeks to amend the Co-operative Societies Act 1979 (the Act) to enable a co-operative society (a society) to pay dividends and honoraria out of its reserves subject to the approval of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies (the Registrar), and to make other miscellaneous amendments.

Clause 1 relates to the short title and commencement.

Clause 2 amends section 2 to define reserves, and to make consequential amendments to the definitions of dividend and honorarium.

The reserves of a society are the assets of the society that are in excess of its liabilities, paid-up share capital, subscription capital and other deposits.

Clause 3 amends section 3 to remove the requirement in subsection (3) for the Registrar to have a seal, and clause 4 makes a consequential amendment to section 10.

Clause 5 amends section 15(4) to provide that an application to register any amendment of a by-law of a society may be signed by the chairperson or the secretary of a society, instead of the current requirement for 3 signatories.

Clause 6 amends section 34 to remove the requirement in subsection (5) for a society to submit its financial statements to an auditor within 6 months after the close of the financial year. A society is already required under subsection (1) to submit its audited financial statements to the Registrar within 6 months after the close of the financial year. Subsection (6) is also amended to allow the Registrar to extend the time for a society to do so.

Clause 7 amends section 53(3) to make clear that a notice of a general meeting must be sent to the members of a society at least 15 clear days before the date of the meeting, and the by-laws of a society can require a longer (but not shorter) period of notice.

Clause 8 amends section 54 to provide that it is not necessary for the members of the society in the annual general meeting of the society to approve the investment of the net surplus of the society, and to provide that any distribution or payment of reserves that has been approved by the Registrar under the new section 72A and any payment of any honorarium, allowance or other benefit to the members of the committee of management are matters that are to be approved by the members of the society in the annual general meeting of the society. Clause 9 makes a related amendment to section 61(2) to provide that it is the function of the committee of management of a society to prepare and present to the annual general meeting of the society any proposal for the distribution or payment of reserves that has been approved by the Registrar under the new section 72A.

Clause 10 amends section 65(1) to provide that a member of the committee of management of a society may receive both an honorarium and an allowance from the society if the payments are authorised by a resolution passed by the general meeting of the society.

Clause 11 amends section 66 to provide that a society may raise capital by issuing bonds or debentures without the Registrar's approval.

Clause 12 amends section 71 to provide that contributions to the Central Co-operative Fund or the Singapore Labour Foundation do not need to be made on the surplus of a society derived from capital gains from property used for the society's operations or from shares (whether listed or unlisted) in any entity, and on grants from the Government that the Minister may exclude by order in the Gazette, subject to such conditions as the Minister may impose.

Clause 13 makes a consequential amendment to section 72(2) to provide that the maximum dividend rate that a society can pay applies to the total dividends paid out of its net surplus and reserves.

Clause 14 inserts a new section 72A to clarify that a society may allocate its reserves to such funds as may be permitted under this Act, the by-laws of the society and any written direction by the Registrar, and to allow a society to distribute dividends to the members of the society or to pay honoraria to the officers of the society out of the reserves of the society with the Registrar's approval. The committee of management of the society must obtain the Registrar's approval before any distribution or payment is to be approved in the annual general meeting of the society.

Clause 15 amends section 73 by inserting a new subsection (7A) to provide that the value of bonus certificates or shares issued by a society may be paid on the death, bankruptcy, winding up or dissolution of the member, despite any time limitation that would otherwise apply under subsection (3) or (5). The payment is made to a person who is authorised to administer the property of the member in such event. A technical amendment is also made to subsection (7).

EXPENDITURE OF PUBLIC MONEY

This Bill will not involve the Government in any extra financial expenditure.
